

Modern Alchemy Films
Orientation

Please share your thoughts with me on camera for the world.

I want you to talk about whatever is important to you.

I am making a film about sacred places, about people, and about how people connect to their place. I am also very interested in creativity, music, and art.

Thanks for considering appearing in a Modern Alchemy Film.

Here are the things you will find useful to know about video, internet video, and how I like to work.

Part of my purpose is to support your dreams and visions. We will do whatever serves you best. We'll take all the time we need. If you make a mistake, say "Cut!" or simply back up and start over. In post-production we can edit out pauses, bloopers, etc. At the 'end', we'll sit for a moment to make sure we've got everything we could want. Then, I may ask you some questions of my own.

When you finish a segment, sit still for a moment as newscasters do, so that I can "fade to black". (Don't look up right away and ask, "How was that?").

For Youtube.com purposes we are looking for short clips of ten minutes or less. If you like, I can ask you questions in an interview format.

The video remains your property until and unless you release it to me, at which time I may use it in whatever way I see fit, specifically, reproduce, store, share, sell, and authorize others to do so in any and all media, electronic or otherwise.

I will promptly produce at least one short video. Once you approve the video (if you wish to do so), I will post it at youtube.

Please register at youtube and subscribe to my channel to be notified when I post new videos.

If you would like additional video or website production, please enquire.

Thank you so much for playing along!

P.S. Before we start filming, I'll ask you to do a "station identification". I would like you to say simply, "I'm watching DanShaw.com", (or some variation).
